"A revelation this year on a trip to Gothenburg was Swedish cuisine. Gothenburg itself was lovely, with its mix of parks, canals and museums, but it was its food that was really outstanding."

ERIKSBERG

14th Conference of the European Chapter of the Association for Computational Linguistics

go:teborg

EACL 2014, GOTHENBURG

THE CONFERENCE

The 14th Conference of the European Chapter of the Association for Computational Linguistics is the primary European conference for all aspects of automated natural language processing. Apart from the main conference with papers, presentations, posters and demos, there will be co-located workshops and tutorials. Previous successful editions took place in Avignon, Athens, Trento and Budapest, just to mention the last years.

The conference is hosted by the University of Gothenburg, and will be held at the Chalmers Conference Centre, centrally located in Gothenburg within a short distance by public transport to hotels, restaurants and shopping.

EACL

EACL is the European Chapter of the Association for Computational Linguistics (ACL), which is the international scientific and professional society for people working on problems involving natural language and computation. Membership includes the ACL quarterly journal, Computational Linguistics, reduced registration at most ACL-sponsored conferences, discounts on ACL-sponsored publications, and participation in ACL Special Interest Groups.

CLT

The Centre for Language Technology in Gothenburg is an organization for collaboration between researchers in language technology and computational linguistics at the Faculty of Arts and the IT Faculty at the University of Gothenburg and Chalmers University of Technology.

The research that we conduct at CLT falls into three overlapping and interacting areas, each of which is distributed across the departments where language technology research is pursued. These are: text technology and linguistic data resources, grammar technology and linguistic theory, and dialogue technology and spoken interaction.
